

WHAT WE HEARD

Water from Lake Worth is regularly lapping up onto our golf course. At what point will the South End be its own island?

The South End is a disconnected and disjointed built environment.

The South End is chock full of aging buildings and infrastructure.

There is too much traffic on our two-lane road.

There are serious economic challenges unique to condominiums that disproportionately impact the South End.

We want this unique part of our island life to be sustained and to thrive.

HOW WE CAN ADDRESS WHAT WE HEARD

- » Create a system of paths and drives that promotes vehicular and pedestrian mobility and safety
- » Instill a comprehensive development approach that responds and interacts with rising water levels, rather than simply reacting to it
- » Get ahead of inevitable future redevelopment that is uniquely Palm Beach in scale and intensity
